A countryman's son by accident trod upon on a snake's tail which turned and bit him so that he died. The father in a rage got his axe and persuing the snake, cut off part of its tail. So the snake in revenge began stinging several of the farmer's cattle and caused him severe loss. Well, the farmer thought it is best to make it up with the snake, and brought food and honey to the mouth of the lair, and said to it, "Lets' forget and forgive ; perhaps you were right to punish my son, and take vengeance on my cattle, but surely I was right in trying to revenge him ; now that we are both satisfied why should not we be friends again" ? "No, no", said the snake, "Take away your gifts ; you can never forget the death of your son, nor I the loss of my tail". Injuries may be forgiven but not forgotten.

Questions :

- (a) Who are the characters in this story ?
