5 x 2 = 10

A person who says whatever he likes usually ends up hearing what he doesn't like. Be tactful. Tact consists of one's words carefully and knowing how far to go. It also means knowing what to say and what to leave unsaid. Talent without tact may not always be desirable. Words reflect attitude. Words can hurt feelings and destroy relationship. More people have been hurt by an improper choice of words than by any natural disaster. Choose what you say rather than say what you choose. That is the difference between wisdom and foolishness. Excessive talking does not mean communication. Talk less; say more. A fool speaks without thinking; a wise man thinks before speaking. Words spoken out of bitterness can cause irreparable damage.

Like humans, birds and animals use tools. For instance, Egyptian vultures pick up rocks with their bills. They hurl the rocks at ostrich eggs. The eggs does not break right away, they will repeat the pounding. Some vultures drop bones from high in the air on the rocks. When the bones are shattered, the birds get at the soft marrow. Turtles are also dropped like this to break their shells. The archer fish uses water as a tool for getting food. The little fish swims close to the shore looking for spiders, insects and other creatures clinging to the branches of trees. When it spots a prey it moves back and forth in the water and adjusts the distance. Then the archerfish spits ‘bullets’ of water at the target. Hit by the bullet the insects falls on and the fish makes a meal of it. An elephant with an itch in the middle of its back cannot scratch it with its feet. With its trunk, the elephant picks up a long stick and uses it as a scratcher. Mother elephants sometimes employ another tool, as a sort of weapon. They uproot a shrub or a small tree and spank their young ones with it when they misbehave.
